15TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME / B

The mission of the disciples does not come from personal enthusiasm or from a desire for greatness. It begins when Jesus thinks that they are ready to speak, based on what they have heard and assimilated. According to Mark, until then they had seen many miracles, heard some teachings, important among the teachings being the theme of the seed that grows in several ways; they have also assisted at some arguments between Jesus and the leaders. They were to refer themselves to Jesus' practice as healer, his call to conversion, his availability to move among the people, his itinerant preaching. They are certainly not mature yet. Under Jesus' supervision they will learn and better themselves: they will come up with the right words and the proper gestures. They will experience the enthusiasm that comes from great success, but in the end, they will have to go beyond even their focus on miracles in order to announce the death and resurrection of the Saviour.

MISSION CO-OPERATIVE PROGRAM SATURDAY & SUNDAY MASSES: JULY 28 & 29

Il profetismo nel senso stretto della parola non è mai, in Israele, una istituzione, come la regalità e il sacerdozio: Israele può darsi un re, ma non può darsi un profeta; questo è un dono di Dio, oggetto di una promessa, ma accordato liberamente. Profeta si diventa per una speciale chiamata e iniziativa divina, non per designazione o consacrazione degli uomini.
